Jim Herbertson is the Technical Director for Climate and Energy at IPIECA, the global oil and gas industry association for environmental and social issues.

Jim joined IPIECA just over a year ago following a long career with ExxonMobil in a range of downstream and upstream roles.

At IPIECA, Jim focusses on low emission pathways and the energy transition which includes topics such as carbon capture and storage and low emission transport.